Affiliations

Please specify your affiliations for this article

Please add your primary affiliation with the institution where the research for this article was conducted. This helps us determine if your institution may cover your OnlineOpen Article Publication Charge and will not affect any information in the published article.

- Do not include any of your co-authors' affiliations.
- When searching for your affiliation, select your institution only; do not include a department, office, or other subdivision (e.g., enter "University of Oxford" and not "University of Oxford Department of Economics").

i You may be eligible to publish open access at no additional cost:
Your institution may have an agreement with Wiley which covers the open access article publication charges (APCs) for affiliated corresponding authors. Please take extra care to list any institutions with which you are affiliated, since your institution may be a Wiley Open Access Account holder. This information will help to determine your eligibility and to ensure that we present you with the correct options. For more information, see our Wiley Open Access Accounts page.

Copyright ownership

The following questions will establish who has copyright ownership over the work and help us provide you with the correct license(s) to be signed and submitted.

What is copyright ownership?

Owners of the copyright to this work have control of the work's reproduction, distribution, creation of derivatives, etc.

In most cases, the copyright owners are the people who contributed to the research and authored the manuscript. However, if the research was performed when acting within the scope of employment, the copyright owner could be the employer.

Do you own the copyright to this work?

Please select and confirm from the following options:

☐ Yes, I own the copyright to this work

This is the correct selection for many works

In most academic and healthcare institutions, faculty retain the copyright for work that they have authored. Please check with your institution to see if different policies apply.

☐ No, I do not own the copyright to this work

Another party may own the copyright to this work

This can apply if:

- This work was completed as part of official duties during the course of employment. Example employers where this can apply:
 - Local government agencies (U.S., U.K., etc.)
 - Private companies
 - Intergovernmental Organizations (IGOs) or Non-governmental Organizations (NGOs)
- There is a related clause outlined in the original statement of work
- The work has been contacted or 'made for hire'

← Affiliations

Confirm & proceed →

Select who owns the copyright to this work

This will tell us if you are authorized to sign this form or you if you need to obtain another signature to legally transfer or retain copyright. 'Yes, all authors/I own the copyright to this work' is the most common for those employed by universities, hospitals, etc.

This is the correct selection for many works

In most academic and healthcare institutions, faculty retain the copyright for work that they have authored. Please check with your institution to see if different policies apply.

☒ No, only some or none of the authors own the copyright to this work

There could be other copyright owners in addition to, or instead of, the authors

This can apply if:

- One or more of the authors contributed to this work as part of official duties during their course of employment. Example employers where this can apply:
 - Local government agencies (U.S., U.K., etc.)

'No, only some or none of the authors own the copyright to this work' is common for those employed by government agencies, private companies, non-governmental and intergovernmental organizations.

STEP 4b:

If author selects “No...” option, then they will be taken to the following page.

Radio buttons will be presented for single author articles, whereas multi-author articles will have multi-select check boxes.

Copyright ownership

The following questions will establish who has copyright ownership over the work and help us provide you with the correct license(s) to be signed and submitted.

Who does own the copyright to this work?

Please select one from the following options.

☒ U.S. Government

Applies only if the work was authored as part of a contributing author's official duties as a United States federal government employee; such works are in the public domain in the US.
